Piano recital with Robert Neumann

Facets in f

Whatever one reads or hears, when it comes to Robert Neumann, it is pure enthusiasm, tinged with amazement and admiration for the young pianist's extraordinary talent.

At just 24 years of age, he displays an artistic maturity that goes far beyond mere virtuosity. His interpretations are characterised by astonishing lightness and the utmost dedication, thus bearing witness to his great musical personality. His repertoire ranges from Bach to his own compositions and improvisations.
The multi-award-winning pianist combines works from the world's piano repertoire with his own compositions and improvisations in programmes carefully crafted for dramatic effect. In 2024, he founded the Cannstatter Klavierfrühling festival, where, under his direction, international pianists of the new generation are showcased.

The programme for the concert evening in Bocholt is dedicated to compositions in the key of F minor:
