Children aged four and over can look forward to a wonderful story about friendship, childish impatience, longing, courage and doubt.

The story is brought to life with plenty of live music, and the audience is actively involved. The puppet show is performed by the "Figurentheater Neumond" from Hanover.

The big wolf had always lived alone, under his tree, at the top of the hill. Then one day, the little wolf arrived. He came from far away. So far away that at first the big wolf could only see a tiny dot…

The book The Big Wolf and the Little Wolf by the French author Nadine Brun-Cosme tells us a great deal about friendship and relationships, and how they can grow and change us. It shows us a multitude of reasons that can make our hearts beat faster: fear, joy, trust and togetherness.

The performances are taking place in cooperation with the Child Protection Association. Admission is free.

Booking is required and will be available from 15 July via the 'Bocholter Kulturtage 2026' page, at the very bottom of the site.
