bölter. is an exceptional guitarist who impressed Nena, Boss Hoss and Samu Haber in equal measure on The Voice of Germany in 2013. The latter described him as "an established international superstar". His talent also captivated the Irish singer-songwriter Ryan Sheridan, who booked bölder. as a support act following an impressive rendition of his hit "The Dreamer". Despite regular radio airplay, bölder. is still considered an insider's tip on the German blues and music scene.

With his German-language debut "Therapie%", released in 2022, bölder. proved that the blues also has a place in the singer-songwriter genre. His new album "Schwebezustand" follows on seamlessly from this, combining bluesy roots with multi-faceted, German-language poetry. The songs are powerful, honest and unmistakable - a reflection of his artistic maturity.

bölter. is a singer, guitarist and songwriter - an artist who brings his passion to the stage with unrivalled energy and virtuosity. As a winner of the "Robert Johnson Guitar Award", he plays an antique resonator guitar, blows the dust off the strings and sings the blues of today in an authentic style.

His music can be placed somewhere between Udo Lindenberg, Reinhard Mey and Bob Dylan - yet his own distinctive style is unmistakable, characterised by catchy melodies, bluesy sounds and profound lyrics. bölder. manages to create the impression of a full band with his performance, whilst playing all the instruments himself: stompbox, bass lines, blues harp and guitar.

"One moment it's properly heavy, the next the blues is rumbling out of the speakers. They chat about life and about a "therapy", present snippets of psychedelic music, keep it bluesy and acoustic. And then there's Bölter's versatile voice: top-notch!" (Tam Tam, 05/22)

"It takes less than 10 seconds before you simply warm to this quirky, likeable, self-assured, modest mop-top. He plays all over Germany and couldn't care less whether he's playing in a small pub or in front of an audience of millions. You only find out in passing that he won the 2012 German Rock and Pop Award ... but only if you ask really thoroughly. Born in Lusatia (which translates as: marshy, damp meadows...) it's no wonder to some that he has a similar bluesy vibe to the guitarists who hail from the swamps of New Orleans. This blend makes him the sort of bloke who's just a snap of the fingers away from becoming a global star. Somehow he reminds you of Bob Dylan or Ed Sheeran, who also simply "did their own thing" and didn't think about chart positions or the big money at first!" (Jack from Radio7)

"Bölter delivers a one-man show that's second to none - at times it seems as though he has more than ten fingers." - Münsterland Zeitung

"A musician who plays with passion, fully immersed in the moment, spontaneous, impulsive and versatile, ranging from meditative to percussive." - Rheinpfalz
