Christmas bulky waste swap meet at the ESB

On Saturday 5 December, the City of Bocholt's Waste Management and Services Department is once again hosting its bulky waste swap meet - the last one of the year. The focus will be on Christmas and winter items.

To ensure the widest possible range of items, staff at the recycling centre have been on the lookout over the past few weeks for things suitable for sale at the bulky waste market. ""The collection container is now well stocked with Christmas tree baubles and festive decorations, as well as other items not specifically related to Christmas,"" says waste management adviser Petra Tacke.

Sale to benefit the Bocholt Food Bank

The bulky waste sale is primarily aimed at reusing items in good condition and thus promoting sustainability. "The more items that can be reused, the better%$, says Tacke. All proceeds from the bulky waste sale will go to the Bocholt Food Bank. Staff from the food bank will be present at the event to answer any questions people may have about their work.

Volunteers are helping the ESB with setting up and running the sale. Volunteers from the Child Protection Association are assisting the waste management adviser with the set-up. The THW Youth Group will be on hand on Saturday to act as stewards and help with tidying up after the exchange. Questions regarding this event can be directed to waste advisor Petra Tacke on 02871 953 34 34.
