Event for International Women's Day 2026

- supported by the Equal Opportunities Officer of the City of Bocholt -

People want to laugh. We are human beings, we want to be happy and not always just complain. But often we do. And that's exactly what happens in the evenings on cabaret stages at best: Elegant, clever and beautiful quarrelling with the big, but also the small issues of life. Failure as a hill to climb, success by chance, happiness as the result of a continuous quest for knowledge.

For 30 years, Nessi Tausendschön has been impossible to bomb off the stage. 30 years of sophisticatedly cultivated scraping, smooth large and small-scale art, baffling dance, melancholic contrition poetry and beautiful music. When Nessi celebrates the ruptures of life, even the soul-blind in the audience awaken from their distanced torpor, the boundaries between inner, remembered emotional reality and outer, physical presence, between the public and the private, even the intimate, become blurred and not a dry eye is left in the house. In short: as a cabaret artist, Nessi has a tongue like a horsewhip, but as a singer she has a voice like an angel. A marvellous combination. For the sake of completeness, it should be said that 30 years of stage life have not left Mrs Tausendschön unscathed: She is the winner of the German Kleinkunstpreis and the Salzburger Stier. These awards may be representative of the numerous other honours with which the culture industry has recognised the cabaret phenomenon Nessi Tausendschön. And one more thing: since the Böhmermann affair, we all know that satire does have an effect, even if it's just a state affair, haha. And knowing that I am a small cog in the big world, I can say with a clear conscience: I like being a cabaret artist. An amusement lady, a joke whore, a joke prostitute, a joker, a fun curtisan, a fezdirne, a joke bitch, a joke whore, a joke slut, a joke call girl, today in new language that's probably "Joke Account Facility Managerin".
