

Burial options

Overview: Grave types at the Bocholt cemetery

For many mourners, the grave of a loved one is a place of reflection and remembrance. Accordingly, the decision for a certain type of grave should be made carefully. In addition to the wishes of the deceased person, the design options and the amount of care required are important aspects for many surviving relatives.

At the Bocholt cemetery you can choose from various burial options for both coffin and urn burials. In addition to the option of designing and maintaining a grave yourself, the cemetery administration offers attractive maintenance-free graves. Of course, you can also commission cemetery gardeners to design and maintain a grave.

On this page, we will introduce you to the different types of graves. In addition, you are cordially invited to visit the cemetery to get an idea of the wide range of burial options. The staff of the cemetery administration will also be happy to advise you personally.

Individually designable graves

Elective graves

The Tranquillity Garden: A Place of Silence and Contemplation

The rest garden is in bloom all summer long. Bee-friendly flowers and perennials create an attractive picture that invites you to linger. Both coffin and urn burials are possible in the resting garden.

The graves for coffin burials are located in the side border area of the grave field. Each of these graves has its own gravestone and a storage area for grave decorations.

The graves for urn burials are located in the edge area of the planting beds. The naming is done by means of a bronze plate which is mounted on the border. In front of each planting bed there is a communal storage area for grave decorations. The plants are permanently maintained by the cemetery administration. An extension of the right of use is possible.

Bronze plates with names remember the deceased

An imposing listed gravestone forms the centre of the rose garden. To the left and right of the gravestone, attractive beds of decorative shrubs and roses have been created. The individual graves are located in front of the decorative beds and are laid out and permanently maintained by the cemetery administration.

The names are inscribed on bronze plates on a natural stone band in front of the graves. The Rose Garden only offers the option of urn burial. An extension of the right of use is possible.
