Bocholt - Climate Municipality in NRW

Climate protection and climate impact adaptation are the big issues of our time, many representatives from science and politics agree.

But effective climate protection is not only a topic for national and international politics - it also starts at the municipal level, on our own doorstep.

Find out on these pages how the city of Bocholt is working together with its citizens to protect the environment and the climate - and how projects and funding programmes can help each individual to do something for the environment.
