The play

"When the Tiger once wanted to be the Bear" is based on the original by Janosch. The little tiger has the crazy idea: everything exactly the other way round! He wants to be the bear and thus cook the mushrooms, while the bear is the tiger and races the rabbits.

But it's not quite that easy for the tiger. How does he even find mushrooms? On the other hand, the bear doesn't like the race at all. So it remains exciting. Will the two friends find a solution together?

The Marmelock puppet theatre takes the children and their companions into the world of the tiger and the bear. All children from the age of 4 are cordially invited to come along.
