Jacques has actually already said goodbye to love; in his environment he is known as a grumpy single man. But when the charming Hortense comes to Jacques' wine shop one day and takes part in one of his wine tastings, they both immediately feel a certain chemistry. At first, luck is on their side and they spend a lot of time together. But misunderstandings lead to chaos and old wounds are torn open. Their fears get in the way of their happiness together. Can they overcome their fears...?
