Fabric market on Sunday, 29 October in Bocholt

Next Sunday, after the successful first event in spring this year, another large fabric market will take place in Bocholt. More than 80 Dutch traders from the organiser Stoffencircus offer a large selection of fabrics, haberdashery, leather and wool. The organiser has years of experience at various markets in the Netherlands, Belgium and Germany. From 11 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., the market in front of the historic town hall and St. George's Square will be transformed into a "paradise for do-it-yourselfers", according to the organiser. Curtains, upholstery fabrics, table linen and fabrics for clothing, bags or lingerie will be on offer. "Sewing is absolutely in vogue. That's why we are pleased to be able to offer the fabric market in Bocholt again together with the Stoffencircus," says Markus Kock from Stadtmarketing Bocholt.
