Bocholt PV consultations continue

Due to the high demand, the service offer "Individual PV advice" will be continued in Bocholt 2023. More than 60 homeowners have already taken advantage of the opportunity and received individual advice on the possibilities of using solar energy.

50 per cent promotion

Last November alone, 22 requests were made for such counselling. "It looks like the offer is hitting the nerve of the time," says environmental officer Angela Theurich. The individual consultations take place online, by appointment. The personal contribution is 80 euros, which corresponds to a 50 percent subsidy from the city of Bocholt. The consultations are carried out by specialists from the Rhine-Ruhr Climate Agency.

The individual consultation as well as the written report of the solar expert includes concrete amortisation calculations based on the wishes of the homeowners as well as a written report on the results of the respective analysis.

Through the format of "Zoom" meetings, citizens of Bocholt can receive uncomplicated information. In this way, finding an appointment is also simple and quick. Interested citizens of Bocholt should contact the Rhine Ruhr Climate Agency directly.
