Two women, two pregnancies, two lives: Janis and Ana are both expecting their first child and meet by chance in the hospital shortly before the birth.

Both are single and became pregnant unintentionally. Janis, middle-aged, has no regrets and is overjoyed in the hours before the birth. Ana, the exact opposite, is a teenager, scared and traumatized. She finds little support even in her mother, Teresa. Janis tries to cheer Ana up. The few words they exchange in those hours in the hospital hallway create a close bond between the two.

But a coincidence throws everything into disarray and changes their lives in a dramatic way.
