Admission free // Seat reservations now bookable online

On Sunday, 20 August, a puppet show with the popular raven "Socke" will be shown as part of the Bocholt Culture Days, suitable for children aged 4 and over.

The play entitled "Alles rabenstark! oder Hauen bis der Milchzahn wackelt?" will be performed twice, at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., on the market square in front of the historic town hall by the puppet theatre "Die Komplizen".

Ticket reservations via the municipal homepage

Admission to the puppet show is free of charge. Due to a limited number of spectators, the City of Bocholt as organiser recommends reserving a seat in advance. This way, children in particular can enjoy the puppet show and see all the details.

Online tickets can be booked at www.bocholt.de/kulturtage. The organisers ask that tickets be reserved especially for children and only as few as possible for accompanying persons. There are 200 seats available per event.

The wolf has taken up residence in the castle of the raven Socken and the badger. Therefore a quarrel arose between them and the wolf beat up the raven sock. The Raven Sock and the Badger are not strong enough to defeat the wolf, so they run away for the time being. With support, they think about what they should do now without making things worse. So it remains exciting: Can Sock the Raven and the Badger defeat the wolf in the end?
