The sensitive film entitled "20,000 Types of Bees" tells the story of a child's search for gender and identity. The Bocholt cultural administration invites you to a screening of the film on Tuesday, 10 October, at the Kinodrom Bocholt. It starts at 8 pm, admission costs 6 euros. Young adults can use their "culture pass" and have free admission.

Content

Born as a boy with the male name Aitor, the eight-year-old prefers to be addressed as Cocó or Lucia. Especially the women from three generations of this family have to question their values and attitudes against this background and learn to accept new things.

In this sensitive family drama about a little trans girl, director and screenwriter Estibaliz Urresola Solaguren succeeds in creating a precisely observed debut work dedicated to the complex topic of the search for one's own gender identity in childhood.

The drama "20,000 Types of Bees" premiered in the competition of the Berlinale 2023. Nine-year-old actress Sofía Otero became the youngest performer in the film festival's 73-year history to win the Silver Bear for Best Acting Performance.

The film lasts 127 minutes. Trailers and tickets are available at www.kinodrom.de.

About the cultural series "The Special Film"

The film series "KINO Bocholt - der besondere Film" has existed since 1977 as a cooperation between the Department of Education and Culture and the Kinodrom Bocholt. The aim is to present unusual films - which would otherwise not be shown in Bocholt - to an interested audience of all ages at a reasonable price. As a rule, selected films are shown every 2nd and 4th Tuesday of the month.
