The speaker Annette Wozny-Koepp has explored the Canary Islands by island hopping and presents the most beautiful impressions of her multifaceted journey on this evening. The archipelago fascinates by its volcanic origin and a unique landscape with rich animal and plant world. On round trips one gains an insight into their magnificent nature and can explore a rich spectrum of sights.

The "islands of eternal spring" with year-round pleasant temperatures offer the best conditions for dreamlike vacations and at the same time have a very individual charm. While Fuerteventura fascinates with the most beautiful sandy beaches, one finds a bizarre moonlike lava landscape on Lanzarote. Tenerife is characterized by its scenic diversity. The Pico del Teide (3,718 m) towers in the center of the island. Gran Canaria offers a "miniature continent" with dreamlike beaches, meter-high dunes and an impressive mountain massif. The three smaller ones - La Palma, La Gomera and El Hierro - are considered the green "hiking islands". La Gomera is also known for its dropouts - hippies who sought refuge in Valle Gran Rey in the 70s. For the "sundowner" you can see them rolling drums and dancing witches.
