Online seminar "Frau&Beruf": Digital application - requirements for a modern application

Thursday, 01 June 2023, 19:00 // Participation free of charge // Registration now

The Equal Opportunities Officer invites all interested women to take part in the online seminar and get a compact overview of the stumbling blocks and advantages of digital applications. Registration is now possible at gleichstellung\(at\)bocholt\(dot\)debocholt(dot)de). Participation is free of charge.

The internet has opened up a whole new range of possibilities for us to get in touch with potential employers. Most companies now want digital applications by email or online via a web form. Although these applications reach the company faster than the paper application portfolio, they have to be prepared just as carefully - and there are stumbling blocks that every applicant should be aware of.

This lecture offers you a compact overview of

- The structure and design of contemporary (digital) application documents,
- typical mistakes and stumbling blocks in email applications and online applications,
- the digital possibilities of job search and self-presentation.

Bocholt's Equal Opportunities Officer Astrid Schupp cordially invites all interested women. The event takes place as part of the series "Frau&Beruf" (Women & Work) of the municipal equal opportunities commissioners in the district of Borken.

Please register by e-mail at the Equal Opportunities Office of the City of Bocholt at gleichstellung\(at\)bocholt\(dot\)debocholt(dot)de).
