

13. April 2022

Equality

Private old-age provision for women: Necessary - but how?

Free online seminar on Thursday, April 28, 2022, 7 p.m. // Register Now

How women can build up a nest egg and make provisions for their old age will be explained on Thursday, April 28, 2022. Barbara Rück, an advisor at the Verbraucherzentrale NRW, will present various private and state-subsidized forms of investment. The event is free of charge and is recommended by the Bocholt Equal Opportunities Officer. Registration by e-mail at the Equal Opportunities Office of the City of Bocholt at gleichstellung\(at\)bocholt\(dot\)debocholt(dot)de).

Content

If you want to provide yourself with a sufficient financial cushion for old age, there is no way around additional individual pension provision. The selection of suitable investment products is not easy, as the retirement provision options are - at least at first glance - difficult to understand. The lecture offers an overview of the possibilities of additional private old-age provision. From secure bank savings plans to fund savings, e.g. with ETFs, to the question of whether insurance policies are suitable for old-age provision. Advantages and disadvantages are discussed and practical assistance is given for the selection of suitable product types. In addition, state-subsidized models such as gross deferred compensation and the Rürup pension will be explained.

The event is part of the "Frau+Beruf" series organized by the municipal equal opportunity commissioners in the district of Borken.

Barbara Rück von der Verbraucherzentrale NRW referiert über private Altersvorsorge speziell für Frauen.

© Stadt Bocholt