Consumer protection in the EU: online shopping at Christmas time

Free online information event on 28 November // EUROPE DIRECT Bocholt invites you to attend

The event "Online shopping at Christmas time" on 28 November at 4.30 pm will shed light on the rights of citizens in the EU. The event is being held in cooperation with the European Consumer Protection Centre and will last around 90 minutes. The EUROPE DIRECT Bocholt accepts registrations.

Online shops make Christmas shopping convenient and can be done with just a few clicks from your sofa. But what happens if the ordered product doesn't arrive by Christmas? What if the parcel gets lost in transit? And can Christmas presents still be returned after the festive period?

There are European answers to these and other questions. With the creation of the European Single Market 30 years ago, the rules for goods and services in the EU member states were standardised. The same applies to consumer protection.

The speakers

Juliane Beckmann and Peter Juhani Koop from the European Consumer Centre (ECC) Germany will provide information on what the EU has achieved for consumers in recent years, what rights they have, how they can assert their rights and who can help them with problems.
