At around 2.00 pm, the fire and rescue services of the city of Bocholt were alerted to a kitchen fire in Eintrachtstraße.

There was a fire in a kitchen on the ground floor.

The fire was quickly extinguished by a fire brigade unit protected by breathing apparatus. As the smoke from the fire had spread throughout the building, extensive ventilation measures were then carried out using an electric high-performance fan.

Nobody was injured.

The fire brigade and rescue service were on site with a total of 14 firefighters and four vehicles.
