The poster for the three-day music school festival

This year, the Bocholt-Isselburg Music School is holding its big music school festival under the Skyliner in front of the Historic Town Hall on three days. There will also be street music throughout the city centre. 500 children and young people from Bocholt and Isselburg will be heard and seen with their orchestras, bands and choirs in the city centre.

"More and more often, our students have asked to perform in front of the historic town hall again," says Claudia Borgers, head of the music school. And so this year, for the first time since 2018, the music school festival will be presented in Bocholt's city centre.

"With the abundance of ensembles, orchestras and bands, we can't manage our programme in one day. But especially after the long Corona break, we want to give every music school ensemble the opportunity to perform. So without further ado, we extended the festival to a whole three days, explains Borgers. "The Stadtparkasse Bocholt is thankfully providing us with the Skyliner, the Parents' and Supporters' Association with the stage and the technology," says Borgers. The Stadtmarketing Gesellschaft will also provide support.

In order to include smaller ensembles, the music school festival will be expanded to include street music. At four locations in Bocholt's city centre, the musicians will present their skills live and without stage equipment and move from location to location with their small concerts.

Opening with music for the evening market

This year's Music School Festival will be opened in cooperation with Stadtmarketing Bocholt with "Music at the Evening Market".
