Mobility survey in the district of Borken in full swing

A total of around 27,000 households in the district of Borken have been invited to take part in the survey and asked to document their journeys on a particular day. Many households from Bocholt can also still participate in the survey.

This representative mobility survey was already conducted in the district of Borken in 2015 and is now being repeated to examine the development of mobility over the last eight years.

Bocholters who have also received mail can still participate - and thus help to actively shape future mobility in the district of Borken.
